Expected Spring Economic Upswing In U.S. Is Overdue

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP)—The Spring season's expected boost for the nation's economy is overdue.

That became clear today from a new batch of government reports.

They showed fresh declines in non-farm employment, in factory workers' earnings and working hours, in business loans and in estimated farm receipts.

One government official, Commissioner Ewan Clague of the Bureau of labor statistics, said ordinarily these figures have showed an uptrend this time of the year. He said maybe it's just delayed action, due in part to a late Easter.

Another top official, Secretary of the Tteasury Snyder, sounded an optimistic note to a New York audience last night. He said latest employment figures actually are higher than a year ago and purchasing power still is high.

Snyder said the present economic picture lacks" the elements that "brought on depression and depression crises in the past."

On the other hand, a third government expert, Louis H. Bean, said businessmen can cause a depression by curtailing investment for industrial expansion. He said recent surveys indicate they plan to reduce it in the next five years to 40 per cent of the 1948 level.

Bean, aconomic adviser to Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, also spoke in New York.

Clague gave these figures for March:

Non-farm employment — down 150,000 from February to 43,848,000. This is 750,000 below a year ago, when March showed 300,000 increase over February. Non-farm employment represents about three-fourths of the nation's workers.

Factory earnings and working hours—Weekly earning down about $1 to $53.37 from February and down $1.66 from December's $55.03 peak. Working hours reduced from 39.4 in February to 38.9 in March.

And the agriculture department estimated that farmers' cash receipts may be 10 per cent less this year than the 1948 record total. Treir net income may decline even more, the department said.

River Crossing Is Made By Sizeable Communist Force

Nanking Is Being Abandoned By Nationalists

NANKING, April 21—(AP)—The Chinese Communists in great force today surged across the Yangtze river to the south bank 80 miles southwest of Nanking and seized north-bank positions directly opposite this quaking capital.

Flight of the government offices remaining in Nanking began tonight, with all bound for Canton except the national defense minist y and the president's office, which were going to Shanghai.

A government spokesman tonight said elements of three Communist armies (60,000 men if at normal strength) had crossed at many points around Tikang (Tichiang), 80 miles up the river from Nanking and had rapidly unified their bridgehead.

Neutral military experts and other government quarters said the first crossing was by 8,000 to 10,000 men, but the Reds were reported rapidly expanding and reinforcing the south-bank position during the night.

Government sourcts reported other crossings in the general area of Wuhu, only 50 miles upstream from Nanking.

Of more immediate danger to Nanking was the seizure of Kiangpu seven miles due westo f Nanking.

A defense ministry source said a Red crossing to Chinkiang, on the south bank 45 miles northeast of Nanking, was imminently expected. That would cut the escape route to Shanghai, 210 miles by road and rail east of Nanking.

Red leader Mao Tze-Tung and his army chief of staff exhorted their troops to "liberate all China"

BRITISH SLOOP SHELLED BY CHINESE GUNS—The British naval sloop Amethyst (above) was shelled by Chinese guns as it moved through the Yangtze river between Nanking and Shanghai. The British destroyer Consort, which went to the aid of the sloop, drew fire from Communist shore guns, according to foreign airmen. British quarters in Nanking reported there were 20 casualties aboard the Amethyst. (AP Wirtphoto via radio from London.)

Additional Ships Of England Draw Communist Fire

Cruiser London And Sloop Black Swan Become Engaged

SHANGHAI, April 21—(AP)—The known dead from Chinese Communist attacks on four British warships reached 42 tonight.

British naval authorities said the cruiser London had 15 dead and 20 wounded and the sloop Black Swan had five wounded.

These two latest vessels to be hit by Communist artillery on the Yangtze river near Nanking arrived back in Shanghai late tonight.

Behind them they left the crippled sloop Amethyst, first British ship shelled by the Reds about 60 miles east of Nanking Wednesday morning.

Neither the London nor the Black Swan was able to reach the Amethyst, which was driven aground on an island but later was refloated.

The known dead included 17 of the Amethyst crew, 10 from the destroyer Consort, which was shelled when it vainly sought to aid the Amythist, and 15 aboard the London.

The exact number of wounded could not be determined, but added up to about 100 in reports from the four ships, with possibly some duplications.

The London and Black Swan wounded were placed in the U. S. naval hospital in Shanghai.

An official British statement said a Royal Air Force flying boat managed to make contact with the Amethyst during Thursday and put aboard one medical officer with supplies. The plane then returned to Shanghai.

A British spokesman said the Amethyst still was being fired on occasionally.

Senate Held In Filibuster As House Argues School Bills

Upper Chamber Is Kept In Session As Talk Goes On

AUSTIN, April 21.—(AP)—The senate refused to take a noon recess today and the filibuster which had been interrupted for three hours began again at 12:10 p. m.

The vote against the recess was 9-18. That was practically the same vote by which the senate has refused to adjourn or recess since 2:30 p. m. yesterday while foes of the basic science bill held the floor.

The filibuster began yesterday at 7:47 [illegible]en Senator Fred Harris [illegible] took the floor against Senator Hill D. 3:5 [illegible] Hudson of Pecos took over at 3:50 a. m.

At 9 a. m. today the filibuster was stopped and 93 bills were passed on a local and uncontested calendar. Hudson then took up where he had left off.

Senator Walter Tynan of San Antonio, senate leader of the bill's proponents, said his forces—which had held closely together during the entire night—they would press for passage.

By clear margins they had kept the senate from adjourning on repeated calls for quitting throughout the night and morning.

Senator Fred Harris of Dallas, opposition leader, told the Associated Press that the "extended debate" would resume whenever the bill came back up.

Harris had left the floor at 3:50 a. m. after 11 hours 3 minutes of arguments through the night and early morning.

Near Record.

It was one of the longest one-man stands in recent legislative history. It was 2 hours 22 minutes short of the record set in 1945 by then-Senator Jesse Martin of Fort Worth.

Senator Hill Hudson of Pecos took up the filibuster where Harris left off. Others were set to follow.

Through most of the night Harris had paced the floor, hammered ard at medical profession sponsor-

Kenneth Royall Is Resigning As Army Secretary

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP)—President Truman was reported today to have accepted the resignation of Kenneth Royall as secretary of the Army.

Man Deprived Of Jewelry He Says Came From Trash

LAREDO, April 21.—(AP)—Jacob Wiseburg, a Pole, won't be allowed to keep $10,000 in jewelry and watches he says he found in a New York City garbage can.

In federal court here yesterday he was denied recovery of the valuables, now in custody of the immigration department.

Wiseburg was arrested in this border city by immigration agents last November. They said he threw a bag containing the jewelry and watches into a vacant lot while he was headed for the Rio Grande river.

At a federal hearing in November, on a charge of attempting to smuggle merchandise into Mexico, Wiseburg said he lost a job as dishwasher in New York City and found the valuables in a large garbage can while he was wandering about the streets.

Officers, throughout the East vainly attempted to trace ownership of the jewelry.

Yesterday, a federal court jury denied Wiseburg possession. The jury held he was headed for the Rio Grande river at the time of his arrest, to export valuables to Mexico in violation of the export control act.

Today Wiseburg remained in the Webb county jail here, awaiting deportation to Poland.

Private Schools Basis For Debate By Texas Solons

AUSTIN, April 21 —(AP)— House members clashed today on the question of whether or not the minimum foundation school bill would injure areas where many children attend parochial or other private schools.

This issue struck fire as the second of the bitterly-contested Gilmer-Aikin school bills faced new assaults by amend-and-delay weapons.

Legislators from South Texas attempted to amend Senator Otis Lock's minimum foundation education bill (S. B. 116) so that school districts where there are many children in parochial schools would benefit in state aid for children who not only attend public schools, but private schools.

Under the amendment, no state money would go to parochial schools, but average daily attendance of both private and public schools would be counted in allocating funds for the public schools.

Proponents of the bill argued that this was not reasonable. They said there was no reason why the state should contribute funds to school districts when children living there attended private schools and did not go to public schools.

Backers of the Gilmer-Aikin plan won a victory when they succeeded in tabling the parochial school amendment 72 to 50. An effect to reconsider this vote was knocked down 70 to 64.

Then Rep. C. S. McLellan of Eagle Lake, saying the bill as written was unconstitutional because it would deprive children living in many Texas districts of rights to state assistance, tried to have the bill sent back to the education committee for a ruling by the attorney general on its validity.

Acting Speaker Bill Jameson of El Paso ruled the McLellan motion out on a point of order. He said the time to make such amotion would be when debate on the bill was completed.

The house adopted several minor

Big Forgery Case Is Uncovered By Arrest In Dallas

DALLAS, April 21.—(AP)—Police today arrested a 27-year-old man here in connection with what was described as the "biggest forgery case in Dallas in 15 years."

Police said the case involved approximately $25,000 in forged checks.

Detective H. P. Lemonds estimated the mild-mannered, slightly built timekeeper had obtained $25,000 during the past three years from scores of Dallas business houses and banks.

Lemonds said the man used two methods of operation.

Using real names, Lemonds related, the man would reverse the initials to confuse cashier. By the time they had discovered the error, the man would be gone.

His second method, Lemonds said, was rubber stamping a check with the name of a fictitious firm.

Detroit Youth Is Held For Brutal Slaying Of Child

DETROIT, April 21—(AP)—State police reported today they had arrested 19-year-old Theodore Hilles, of Detroit, in the brutal slaying of a 6-year-old boy.

Commissioner Donald S. Leonard said patrol car officers radioed that Hilles had admitted the crime.

The charred nude body of little George "Peanuts" Counter was found early today on an ash he p in a hotel garage.

The child's body was found after a six-hour search.

A statewide search for Hilles, with whom George was last seen, began after discovery of the body. Hilles, a roomer at the hotel, reportedly left the hotel at 4:30 p. m yesterday.

The child's body, bruised and slashed, was discovered behind a furnace in the hotel garage. Police said he was apparently the victim of a sex fiend.

Hilles, who was shunned by boys his own age, was playing with George in the Counter backyard yesterday, the victim's mother, Aurlie, said. George had been forbidden to asociate with him.

American Planes Crash In Germany

It was the first fatal accident during the U. S. army maneuvers near the Czechoslovakian border.

Democratic Senator Predicts Bill To Provide Housing Will Be Passed

WASHINGTON, April 21—(AP)—Senator Myers (D-Pa.) predicted today the senate wil pass the administration's housing bill without major changes.

As it stands now, it calls for 810-000 public housing units in the next six years, a farm home project, slum clearance. That's what the president ordered.

But opponents, criticizing both the cost and the need for such a program, have tried to riddle it with amendments. So far the administration has fought them off.

More amendments are pending, including the explosive anti-segregation proposal that upset hopes of a final vote yesterday.

Senators Bricker (R-Ohio) and Cain (R-Wash.) want a clause in th bill saying there will be no discrimination against anyone wanting to rent one of these government-built homes, regardless of race, creed or color.

Even many strong civil rights proponents have balked at this. They fear that mixing civil rights and housing in one bill would doom it.

Another Bricker-Cain amendment was first order of busiess today: It would let citizens decide by vote whether they wanted public housing in their communities.

The house is still on its Easter vacation. It swings back into action Monday, probably with debate on the dynamite-packed labor program.

The senate foreign relations committee was called into an afternoon closed session to hear Secretary of State Acheson report on the hush-hush arms-for-Europe program, and its possible cost.

Other senators not on this committee have been insisting that the plans be made public before the senate votes to ratify the North Atlantic defense treaty.

The senate armed services subcommittee continued its investigation into whether Americans were guilty of brutality in forcing confessions from Nazis responsible for the Malmedy massacre.

Also before a senate committee—the finance committe—was the bill to repeal federal taxes on oleomargarine. And a labor subcommittee heard testimony on a bill to increase minimum wages.

Greek Newsman Given Life Term For Polk Murder

SALONIKA, Greece, April 21—(AP)—Gregory Staktopoulos, a Greek newspaperman and former Communist, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for complicity in the murder last May of George Polk, Fort Worth, Texas correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Staktopoulos' 68-year-old mother, Anna, was acquitted on the same charge, as requested by the prosecution. The prosecution had asked a sentence of only 10 to 20 years for Staktopoulos, who admitted in court that he was with Polk on the night of his death. He contended he was an innocent dupe of the Communists.

Adam Mouzenides, the man the prosecution said fired the gun which killed Polk, got a death sentenct, as did his accused helper, Evangelos Vasvanas. Neither Mouzenides nor Vasvanas, who are Communists, have been apprehended and both were tried in absentia.

Polk, correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting System in the United States, was found shot in Salonika Bay last May after telling friends he was on his way to interview Markos Vafiades, then the leader of Greece's Communist guerrillas.

During the trial, Staktopoulos, a former Communist, admitted he was with Polk the night of his death, but contended he was an unwitting tool of the Communists. The prosecution contended Polk was killed in a boat in the bay, after he consented to be blindfolded and bound as part of his effort to get through to Vafiades.

British Workers Will Not Join War Against Russia, Peace Parley Told

PARIS, April 21.—(AP)—Konni Zilliacus, leftwing British legislator, told the Communist-sponsored "world peace congress" today the "workers of Britain will not fight or be dragged into fighting against the Soviet Union."

Paul Robeson, American negro singer ,told the delegates yesterday that negroes in the United States would never fight the Soviet Union and his statement brought a quick retort from a negro leader in New York.

Zilliacus, a member of the British labor party, called upon the delegates to produce a reasonably detailed set of proposals "for settling issues betwen the East and West."

The audience followed the speaker only listlessly during his attack on the North Atlantic Defence Alliance and American foreign policy, attacks which echoed yesterday's openng barrages.

Robeson's statement brought a quick report from the head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in New York City.

"In the event of any conflict that our nation has with any other naton, we will regard ourselves as Americans and meet the responsibilities imposed on Amercans," said Walter White, secretary and leader of the NCAAP.

"We do not feel that Mr. Robeson voiced the opinion of the overwhelming majority of the 14,000,-000 negro Americans," White added.

Robeson had said "it is unthinkable" that American negroes "would go to war on behalf of those who have oppressed us for generations" to fight the Russians.

Approximately 2,000 delegates from many nations are attending the congress.

Widespread Rains In Texas Go Into Their Fourth Day

By The Associated Press

Fog, light rain and drizzle hampered the observance of the 113th anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto in many parts of Texas today.

It was the fourth consecutive day of widespread rains. Although encouraged by the timely precipitation, state farmers generally were wanting return of sunny skies.

The United States weather bureau said their wishes probably would be granted by the weekend. Temperatures also were due to start rising.

At mid-morning, rain was reported at Beaumont, Lufkin, Alice and Abilene. Drizzle was falling at Houston, Galveston, Laredo, San Antonio and Austin.

Skies were cloudy elsewhere in the state except from the Guadalupe mountains westward.

A number of points had fog—including Amarillo in the Panhandle, Dallas in North-Central Texas, Waco in Central Texas and most coastal points. The U. S. weather bureau said ceilings were as low as 200 feet along the coast, and flying of private planes was being hampered.

Heaviest rains for the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a. m. today were Beaumont, 1.41 inches; Corpus Christi, 1.14 inches; Galveston, .47; and Laredo .22.

Minimum temperatures early today ranged from 41 at Salt Flats to 75 at Brownsville, Dalhart, in the upper Panhandle, had a low of 44.

Yesterday's maximums ranged from 91 at Presidio to 57 at Big Spring.

Scattered light rain and showers were forecast for today and tonight in East Texas and west of the Pecos river.

U.S. Government Terms Peace Meet Red Controlled

WASHINGTON, April 21.—(AP)—The State Department said today that delegates to the Communist-inspired "World Peace Conference" in Paris are "performers" following a dictated party line.

A department statement termed the conference one of a series designed to "make people think that the Soviet Union alone favors peace."

The Paris meeting opened yesterday with a number of speeches attacking the North Atlantic treaty, the Marshall Plan and "warmongers."

Chile Is Again Shaken By Quake Of Much Violence

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 21.—(AP)—Another earthquke shook South Central Chile today. A severe shock in that region Tuesday night killed 41 persons, according to interior ministry reports.

A telephone call to President Gabriel Gonzales Videlia's office from the town of Angol said the new quake was one of "great violence." It hit the town at 10:54 a. m. (8:54 a. m. C.S.T.) The governors of the province, of which Angol is the capital, said the president was there.

The official death list of the Tuesday night quake dwindled as panic subsided and communications was restored.

Soviet Newspaper Denies Russia To End Her Blockade

BERLIN, April 21—(AP)—The official Soviet army newspaper, Taegliche Rundschau, denied today there was a Russian plan to end the Berlin blockade.

It said such rumors were spread by "the Western Imperialist reactionaries and their German agents, who are trying to create a tense atmosphere in Berlin."

Texans Celebrating Holiday

By The Associated Press

Texas remembers Sam Houston and his band of ragged volunteers today and marks the 113th anniversary of the battle at San Jacinto which gave it independence from Mexico.

The impressive monument to these warriors is the center around which the biggest ceremony takes place. The day-long program at the tall spire on the San Jacinto battleground near Houston started at 10:30 a. m.

At San Antonio, where the state's merriest tribute to the handful of men who caught Santa Anna asleep is in full sway, fiesta San Jacinto reaches a climax.

At the monument Hugh Roy Cullen, Houston oilman and philanthropist, is to be the principal speaker.

The state organization of Sons of the Republic of Texas will meet earlier and elect new officers.

Members of the Sons and Daughters of the Republic of Texas will eat lunch on the deck of the Battleship Texas, dedicated as a State Shrine last SanJacinto Day. The battleship is retired.

Military planes will fly over the battlefield from Eighth Air Force from Fort Worth.

John J. Herrera, Texas regional governor of the League of United Latin-American Citizens, will place a wreath on the monument.

You remember what happened at San Jacinto:

It was 1836 and a handful of Texans were trying to break away from a Mexican government they considered tyrannical.

The Mexican General Santa Anna had won several big victories, including the slaughter at the Alamo in San Antonio, and, assuming the war was over, swept eastward.

He camped at the junction of the San Jacinto river and Buffalo bayou.

General Houston and his Texans were in the rear. On April 20 Houston's forces took up a position opposite the Mexicans.

The arrival of another 400 troops broughta Santa Anna's forces to approximately 1600 men. Houston had between 700 and 800.

Santa Anna felt secure, and was taking a siesta when the Texans charged with the battle cry of "Remember the Alamo."

Houston reported that 630 Mexicans killed, 280 wounded and 730, including Santa Anna, captured.

Two Texas were killed and 23 wounded.

in a special communique broadcast by the Communist radio.

Order of Day

The Red order of the day told the Communists to sweep forward in an offensive that will protect China's "sovereignty and territorial integrity." It instructed Red troopers to seize all "war criminals," particularly retired President Chiang Kai-Shek.

The anouncement by the Communist chieftians left some room for negotiations on the basis of Red surrender terms rejected yesterday by the government.

It stipulated that if any local region is willing to make peace on Red terms it will be accepted. The broadcast said also that if the government is still in Nanking when Red forces surround the capital nationalist leaders will be given another opportunity to sign a peace agreement with the Communists. Such an agreement would amount to outright surrender.

The Communist communique said that the order to fire wasi issued because the Nanking government had rejected the peace proposal formulated in Peiping.

Americans Blamed

The anouncement charged the nationalists refused to accept the peace terms because the Nanking governmest still "obeys American imperialist and Kuomintang (government party) chieftain Chinag Kai-Shtk in their effort to prevent the liberation of the Chinese people and a settlement of domestic problems by peaceful means."

The government stated that even if it had signed, Red peace proposal's "narrow minded attitude and oppressive spirit" would have been unacceptable to both the national army and the people. The reply charged that the entire proposed agreement "smacks of Communist military control of the entire nation."

Government officials were making preparations to evacuate from all points along the threatened 650 mile Yangtze line. Acting President Li Tsung-Jen ordered the ministry of communications to prepare for the evacuation of all officials from Nanking.

All but six of the 40 odd U. S. Marines here to guard the American embassy have been sent to Shanghai in a move to prevent incidents should the Communist overrun Nanking.

ing the bill, quipped and joked through the entire proceeding. Senators snoozed, visited, wandered about, listened occasionally.

Bloodshot eyes were about Harris' only visible sign of fatigue when he closed.

His voice still rang loudly and clearly in his closing remarks.

"Fine, I feel fine," said the navy-veteran hero of the ill-fated Carrier Franklin when he left the floor.

Proponents of the house-passed measure fought back stubbornly throughout the night.

They repeatedly refused to adjourn.

They served a barbecue supper, kept refilling a jug of hot coffee as rapidly at it was emptied, brought on a hot breakfast at 5 a. m.—all in an adjoining committee room to which senators filtered back and forth.

The bill by Rep. Edward P. Hughes of Newton and others would require all who would practice any phase of the healing arts first to take state-supervised examinations in the six basic sciences: Public health and hygiene, chemistry, physiology, anatomy, pathology and bacteriology. Chiropractors have bitterly fought the measure troug several legislatures.

Harris said tere isn't a school in Texas that offers all of the courses.

"High Pressure."

"It's a vicious piece of legislation," he repeated time and again. He said the American Medical Association had "high pressured" it through the legislature.

"It was designed, created and directed at three classes of people—chiropractors, naturopaths and osteopaths," he said.

He quipped between attacks.

"My days of getting medical attention have just ended," he joked.

At 4:30 a .m. he was back on the floor briefly helping Hudson.

Hudson said he knew the bill was going to pass.

"The best we can do is stall off the evil hour as long as we can," he said.

He challenged the right of the legislature "to vote anybody out of business."

He charged that was the aim of the bill "at the instigation of a powerful and insidious lobby."

The senate had gone into session at 2:30 p. m. yesterday after a noon recess. Harris started the filibuster proper 2 hours 17 minutes later.

A dozen times during the night the roll was called on motions to adjourn or recess. Every roll call resulted in refusal. Votes were always in the neighborhood of 18-10.

At 5:40 a. m. Senator John Bell of Cuero asked Hudson:

"After all, don't you think this is a helluva way to pass legislation?"

Hudson had talked 5 hours and 10 minutes when the uncontested bill calendar interrupted.

Shortly before he left the floor he said that when the bill passed it would be after seven opponents had dropped in their tracks.

"You've spent all of this time trying to wear two of us down," he told proponents, adding:

"And for your information, I'm not tired and Red Harris is rested."

Lieut. Gov. Allan Shivers ruled that Hudson would have the floor when the uncontested calendar is disposed of.

The London's captain ordered withdrawal of the cruiser and the Black Swan from the vicinity of the damaged Amethyst. He said "all signs of peaceful intent have been disregarded and heavy fire opened from batteries near Bates Point and on the southern end of Beaver Island (both in the vicinity of the Amethyst.) This fire was effectively replied to but under such conditions (it is) clearly impossible to bring the Amethyst downriver."

Meanwhile an RAF flying boat from Hong Kong took off from Shanughai with doctors and medical supplies but failed in an attempt to reach the Amethyst.

Early in the evening 59 survivors of the Amethyst arrived here by train from the north. Among them were five wounded.

Survivors said 89 officers and crewmen were still aboard the sloop.

Ships on Way.

More British ships, the Belfast and Constance, are en route to the Yangtze a London admiralty statement said.

In London the admiralty issued a statement saying:

"The HMS Amethyst reports she is anchored in a satisfactory position and believes herself capable of 17 knots. It clearly would be undesirable for her to attempt to run the gauntlet of concentrated fire at the present moment."

British sources counted a death toll of 27 in the Communist shelling yesterday of the Amethyst and the destroyer Consort. This figure has not been confirmed positively, although the Consort unloaded 10 dead and 16 wounded when she docked here early today.

The Shanghai consulate statement said one officer and 60 men, including five wounded, from the Amethyst were duo in Shanghai by train tonight from Changchow.

These men, the consulate said, made their way ashore yesterday after the Amethyst was beached on Rose Island in the Yangtze.

The remainder of the Amethyst's crew of 148 men presumably were still abaird the craft, which has been refloated and reportedly moved three miles downstream from the island.

An American hospital ship at Tsingtao was ordered here by Vice Adm. Oscar C. Badger, commander of U. S. Western Pacific forces, to treat British wounded.

The Consort is undergoing minro repairs here and will proceed to Hong Kong for more complete repairs.

The British destroyer Constance has been ordered into the Yangtze from Hong Kong to aid her sister ships.

GILMER-AIKIN

amendments acceptable to sponsors of the Lock bill, and generally upheld backers of the measure in opposing amendments they considered crippling.

However, one amendment opposed by proponents of the bill was adopted. The amendment, by Rep. Grainger W. McIlhany of Wheeler, would base the employment of teachers on a ratio of one for each group of 20 pupils in school districts where there are three or less scholastics per square mile.

McIlhany said the amendment would give sparsely settled sections of West Texas equal school facilities with other parts of the state. rMs. Rae Files still of Waxahachie opposed the amendment, saying that any such inequalities in teacher loads could be handled by the head of the state school system.

The house voted 91-36 in favor of McIlhany.

An amendment, which acceptable to sponsors, would allow school districts with less than 250 pupils to employ an additional classroom teacher instead of a vocational teacher.

Shortly after noon the house recessed until 2:30 p. m.

The first real house showdown on the controversial series of school bills—planned to give Texas a brand-new system of public education—came yesterday when a walkout by opponents backfired. Backers of Senator Jim Taylor's reorganization measure shoved it through to final passage by an 85 to 30 vote.

The Taylor bill went back to the senate for adoption or rejection of house amendments. Then the house got busy on the Lock measure.

The Lock bill's purpose is to guarantee a full nine months of schooling to each child in Texas under a teacher drawing a minimum salary of $2,400 a year.. It sets educational standards, such as the number of pupils per teacher. It proposes a revolutionary plan of financing under which a formula called the economic index would determine how much local districts would pay in relation to all other districts, and how much the state would pay.

The house batted down two amendments to Lock's bill yesterday.

One would have taken out a provision for school supervisors. It was defeated 81 to 42.

The other would have extended state aid to hiring of band directors and coaches. It lost 77 to 45.

Rep. George Nokes of Corsicana told the house the finance plan would provide a "fair and square" allotment from each county. He admitted it would raise the cost of some districts and counties.

"The bill is not, intended to help any one county," Nokes said. "It would equalize the cost of the public schools among all counties and guarantee the minimum program of education to all counties."

Rep. Douglas Bergman of Dallas asked Nokes if passage of the Gilmer-Aikin bills would not create necesity for new taxes.

"How do we know how much we will spend under the departmental and eleemosynary bills?" Nokes replied. "We won't know whether new taxes will be needed until those bills are worked out."

He said he hoped the state would be able to operate with funds now available. Bergman rapped ack he thought that passage of the school bills would "bankrupt the state and impose an additional tax burden."

"I'm against that," the Dallas lawmaker said.

The house voted to consider the bill section-by-section. That meant when it had disposed of one provision finally, no new amendments could be added to that section. Backers of the bill wanted to work it that way.

The Dishpan Road To Romance

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

As an ardent and regular reader of marriage counseling and advice-to-the-lovelorn articles, I have reached an important conclusion:

The ideal American husband is the fellow who helps his wife with the dishes.

Apparently, he can beat her regularly, spend his substance at the corner pub, chain the children in the attic and carry on with other women. But he's a dream boy, the perfect spouse, if he gets a dish towel in his hands and helps the little woman with the debris of dinner.

Frankly, it's a little hard to understand the preoccupation of the love-life experts with this particular chore. And what makes it even harder to understand are statistics on the number of automatic dishwashers which have been sold to the families of the nation. What's a guy to do for instance, if he's rash enough to buy the little woman one of these great labor-saving devices? If he can't dry the dishes—the machine does it and much more antiseptically too—its' the beginning of the end for his happy home life.

As I understand the situation, what the American woman craves most from her husband is companionship. The experts invariably tell us that this is the thing that American husband find it most difficult to provide their wives. Money, sure; a nice home, easy; an automobile, always.

But companionship, the happy, carefree relationship of equals, no. Marriage in America, they tell us, is foundering on the rocks of man's ambition. When he should be sitting down to a friendly game of gin rummy or peacefully smoking a pipe as she tells him about how the laundry lost two pillow cases and ripped his best dress shirt, where is the American husband? He's at his desk making out bills, out trying to get promoted to president of the company, or worse, he's playing poker with the boys.

It's hard to quarrel with the theory of companionship, but why a man's willingness to dry dishes for his wife should be the supreme test is a little hard to explain.

Of course, if a man and his wife are both gainfully employed, it's only fair for him to give her a helping hand with the dishes. But if the wife's job is housekeeping, I think the husband should be allowed time out for newspaper reading or whatever he wants to do after dinner. His job is bread-winning and hers is bread-making, and they should stick to their own departments.

Looking over trends in the counselling and advice business, it occurs to me that the heat is off the American woman. Now it's being placed on the American man. He came off pretty well during that long period when they were ripping the girls limb from limb as neurotic, selfish and lazy parasites.

Right now the tendency is to break down the boys. An article I've just finished reading in a popular monthly magazine alleges that most American husbands are not only lousy lovers, but they are engaged in trying to reestablish a sort of Victorian authority over their women. The picture this expert paints (a woman, but she denies she's anti-male) is that most husbands accept everything and give nothing in their marriages.

Probably a few of the male spouses are thoroughly selfish gents, but you can't generalize on human beings. You can't generalize on marriages and you can't broadcast advice like grass seed.

Most of all, you can't herd the husbands of the nation into the kitchen after dinner. Of my own personal knowledge, there are a lot of wives who actually enjoy seeing their husbands sit down and relax while they—the housewives—are cleaning up.

How To Be a Good Parent

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
(AP Newsfeatures)

Being a good parent is no harder than being a bad parent. It doesn't require a magic formula, It doesn't mean that one must never make mistakes or must follow specific situations according to the book.

True, being a good parent is not an easy job. It is time-consuming, and it tries one's patients. It ties one down and makes extraordinary demands on a sense of humor. But all one has to remember is that parents are peonle living with children, says Professor James L. Hymes, Jr., in "Being a Good Parent" (Bureau of Publications, Teachers College, Columbia University.)

One feeling which all good parents have in common is a desire for children, says Professor Hymes. This doesn't sound startling, yet from the baby's point of view this very normal, common-place attitude has deep significance.

The wanted child's arrival is welcome. The things which he does are newsworthy. He is loved and appreciated, exclaimed over and enjoyed. He is held and talked to. He is laughed at and with; a whole unercurrent of pleasant excitement attends eery event rom his first bath to his first gurgling, to the first amazing moment that he seems to focus his eyes on Mother and Daddy.

The wanted child is a loved child. He senses that this is so—not from the words his parents use, but from a tone and quality in their voices which convey their real feelings. He senses that this is so from the way he is touched and handled. In giving him love, his parents start him in life with the one greatest gift they have to offer.

How these parents show the love they feel varies, says Dr. Hymes. From the infant's standpoint, few activities convey love and being wanted as fully as do the physical contact and the cuddlin that inevitably come with breast feeding. For a variety of reasons, some mothers who truly want their children bottle-feed them. They make up to the child, and to themselves, by holding him close while he sucks his bottle. They linger with the child when his feeding is done instead of rushing on to the next chore.

To give another example, says Dr. Hymes, the parents who really want children never are content to let their baby's bath be simply something they do to get him clean. For most of them, the bath becomes funtime. It is another chance for Baby to be handled and talked to and fondled. It is a time for smiling, for little jokes, and for admiring. Baby understands none of the words that are used, but he never misses a bit of the good feeling that is expressed.

Fathers who want children very frequently capitalize on bathtime in this way. It is hard for men, who are away from home much of the day, to get the satisfaction which their desire for a child demands. In many homes bathtime is in the evening so that Father can do it. It takes place then because it gives Daddy a chance to talk to their childrn, smile at them, hold them. It is good for both Daddy and the child, says Dr. Hymes.

Many fathers help out by giving baby supplemental bottle feedings on weekends or evening and early morning feedings. This is one of the first expressions of another attitude of the good parent: that raising junior means teamwork. It gives Mother some rest and relaxation, but most of all, it gives Father the glad feeling that comes with holding his child. And from his inevitably different way of holding, his bigger hands and longer arms and different clasp, the baby learns again and in a new way that he is a welcome arrival in the household.

Some parents try to express love by giving things—elaborate electric trains, huge and fancy doll houses, cowboy suits, and expensive costumes. But no matter what the specific action may be, the child will sense the underlying feeling. That is what counts. Where this feeling of wanting a child is deepest, however, the parent usually knows that his greatest gift is not a thing, but himself: enough time alone with the child, a trip only for the two of them, or a place and time to build and make things together. Going for a walk around the block or to the store with his parent is a much more satisfying experienc for the young child than even the longest and most diverting trip made.

All parents, and new parents especially, concludes Dr. Hymes, must remember that parenthood should be an adventure in happy living together. In working out the good things to do for their children, they must remember that the basic thing is to love them and to show them they are wanted. This is not a technique, but a feeling—and appropriate actions in many situations will flow easily from it.

FARM SUBSIDY PLAN

The administration has a new farm subsidy plan, which might contain answers to some of the criticism of the present plan. As it now is, a minimum level is set for prices at the farm of the basic food crops. Whenever the market price falls below that level, the government begins to buy and continues to do so as long as necessary to keep the markete price at the minimum level. There has been much public complaint against this method, especially in the last few years, on the ground that it keeps food prices high, never gives them a chance to go down.

Now the administration proposes that in the case of perishable foods the market price be let alone by the government, be allowed to find its own level. For instance when there was a big potato crop the price would be allowed to fall to a low level, as it used to do in good crop years before the farm price controls began. The farmer still would get his minimum price, however, because the government would pay him the difference between that minimum and the price for which he sold his potatoes. This might answer the argument that farm subsidies make high prices. It would also eliminate the terrible waste which results when the government buys food and destorys it, just to keep it off the market.

The new idea has faults, too, perhaps many of them. For one thing it might play into the hands of the commodity speculator. The farmer, being able to collect from the government, would have little incentive to try to sell his crop at a time when the market was favorable. The speculator might have abundant opportunity to buy foods at a low price and hold them for a higher price. The farmer would have little need to plan his crops according to the needs of the market, and there would be new argument for government planning of crops so there would be enough of each.

The proposal recognizes the value of a free market, which is a point gained. It has danger, among others, of leading toward more government controls, at a time when many persons think we need fewer government controls. Its possible cost, at a time when costs are becoming more important, has not been reckoned.

FRUITS OF TRADE

If the deterioration of relations between the United States and Russia brings about continued disruption of trade between the two nations, steel may soon be more expensive in America. The reason is that America has been getting from Russia about a third of its supply of manganese, which is necessary for making steel. Until recently Russia had continued to send normal shipments of the scarce metal despite the rough talk and strained relations between the two governments. But lately the exports have been curtailed.

Almost all of the manganese needed for the great steel industries of the United States is imported. There are substantial quantities of manganese ore in this country, chiefly in the upper Missouri River Valley. But the ore is of such low grade that it does not pay to use it. If the imports should be seriously reduced, the industry probably could get along for many years on American ore, but the price of manganese, a part of the cost of making steel, would be a great deal higher.

Americans are used to thinking of their nation as self-sufficient because of its vast resources. The amount of manganese which goes into making a ton of steel is trifling by comparison with the iron ore and coal which are required. But the manganese is required, too. The supply of it, and of many other strategic materials which industry must have to make use of the vast resources, is one of the fruits of trade in an orderly family of nations.

BELGIAN PROBLEM

Along among the beneficiaries of the Marshall Plan, Belgium may be said to have made a full economic recovery. Production is up to or above pre-war levels, unemployment figures are low, exports and imports are properly balanced, tax receipts are ample to cover drains on the budget, and prices are at a satisfactory level.

Nevertheless, in spite of this internal stability, economic problems exist for Belgium. Her strong economy makes her, as one observer says, "an island of free economy in the midst of a controlled world." This controlled world is one in which competititon is eliminated by subsidies and other artificial measures, and the countries belonging to it have made much less progress toward achieving the aims of the Marshall Plan.

Belgium has proceeded perhaps as far along the recovery road as she can go without fuller co-operation from her European neighbors, and has begun to seek help from the United States in getting this co-operation

The time may be ripe for a review of trade policies under the Marshall Plan. If the countries benefiting by the funds are ever to be free from the necessity of dependence on outside aid, their internal stability must be built up to a point where they will be willing to risk free competition and to act together in the interest of general prosperity.

FAIR EMPLOYMENT GAINS

Fair employment laws have not had Congressional action as yet, but are gaining in the states. A statement of the American Council on Race Relations reports that New Mexico, Oregon, Rhode Island and Washington enacted such laws this year. In nine other states there is said to be a fair chance for this legislation. They are: Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio and Pennsylvania. In six other states fair employment bills were defeated: Arizona, Indiana, Kansas, Montana, North Dakota and Utah.

This is not as rapid progress as the friends of this legislation would like, but at least they have some gains to show. They can also profit by defects and undesirable features that crop up in the various state laws, and the example of one state may win over a neighbor. If enough states pass fair employment laws, enforce them wisely and have favorable experience with them, Congress may be won over in the end.

THE FINNS AND THE DEBT

The virtuous, according to the common notion, seldom get the rewards they deserve. However that may be in the relations of individuals, it has much truth where nations are concerned.

Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey believes in compensating merit. Of all the countries which borrowed from us in World War I, no other has even approached the record of Finland in the matter of repayinng its debt. Out of $8,000,000 due the United States, the Finns repaid $7,500,000 before the Second World War came along to disrupt all normal international relationships. Senator Smith would show our appreciation of this fidelity to contract by turning all future Finnish debt payments into educational books, equipment and instruction for the Finns. Part of the money would go to buy books for Finnish libraries, part to train young Finns in American technical schools.

This would be analogous to our handling of the Chinese indemnity received when the Boxer rebels massacred American missionaries in 1900. The Chinese payments were used to provide college education for recommended Chinese students. Many of China's leading statesmen derived their education from the United States. Not only was China benefited, but the United States built up an enormous mass of good will. So would it be in Finland's case if the Smith resolution should be adopted by Congress. The advantage to our reputation, too, would not stop at the Finnish border.

DEWEY ON RENT CONTROL

Rent curbs are desirable, says Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, who says he will authorize no dropping of federal control from any part of the state "except upon the clearest proof that controls are neither necessary nor desirable."

Governor Dewey thus lines himself up with his recent political rival, President Truman, and definitely is not in the camp of Senators Cain and Bricker, of his own party. The latter two senators, on the other hand, find congenial company in some Democratic senators, such as Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, who oppose federal controls.

Evidently there is a line of diagreement as to these controls which runs squarely across both parties.

INVENTOR OF WRITING

Who invented writing and the first alphabet? An old Oxford professor, G. R. Driver, in a new book, "Semitic Writing," thinks he has the answer to a long-vexing question. Writing on clay was invented, in his opinion, by the Sumerians, a mysterious race who lived at the beginning of dated history in Southern Babylonia. The Sumerians used a picture form of writing in which each character represented a syllable.

The Babylonians carried this system on, and the Persians simplified it. The Egyptians, who had devised their own system of writing, starting from pictures, got to the point of occasionally using their characters to denote consonants. Some Semitic peoples saw the importance of this discovery, and instituted the alphabetic system of writing, in which each character represents a certain sound.

Who was the great inventor? We shall probably never know. But he and his helpers probably lived in Palestine anywhere between 2500 and 1500 B. C., and perfected the invention on the Phoenician coast. The Phoenicians, great sea traders, carried the new idea to Greece and Western Europe.

It is too bad that this anonymous genius remains unknown. He should have some appropriate honor for an achievement which has so greatly affected the life of man.

They say Congress is three months behind its schedule. As that always seems to be the case, and it seems to be impossible to hurry Congress to meet the schedule, wonder why they don't slow the schedule down to meet Congress?

SERVE-SELF LIFE

At those serve-self dining places where the food is put on show,
Bearing empty trays, the hungry
to the counters come and go.
They may take what dish they fancy, but at times they see too late
That their neighbor has selected something different for his plate,
And regretfully they mutter as they view his choice of pie:
"We'd have had it had we seen it,
but we must have passed it
by."

"It was there!" the neighbor answers, "Out for everyone to see.
You can still go back and get it if you really envy me.
It's too bad you overlooked it, but
I've never understood
Why some foods are never wanted
'til another finds them good.
For in all these self-serve places,
my experince has shown
What the other fellow chooses better seems than does our own."

Boy, this life's a serve-self counter lined with every sort of dish
And your mind's the tray you carry for whatever you may wish.
School and college wait to serve
you. All is there for you to view.
Theres' the knowledge you'll be needing for the work you hope to do.
If you want it, you may have it;
but regretful you will be
When you find the other fellow has the skill you failed to see.

Plans Outlined Lions Memorial Wednesday Night

Plans for the first annual Lions Club memorial meeting to be held Wednesday night at the Country Club have been completed, and an attractive souvenir program is now in the printer's hands.

W. P. McCammon, chairman of the program committee for the event, called his group together Wednesday night at the home of Lowry Martin and completed preparation of an impressive program.

A "dignified, impressive" meeting is planned, McCammon announced, to eulogize all departed members of the club.

The chairman's committee is composed of Martin, Sydney Marks, Fred Harvey, past district governor; Gaston Gooch, president; and John H. Bryant, secretary of the local club.

McCammon, Martin and Marks are the three charter members of the Corsicana Lions Club, which is the oldest luncheon club in the city. It started with 15 members about 30 years ago and now has on its roster 130 active members.

Names of deceased members to be memorialized were taken from the Lions Club's records and will be listed on the printed program for the memorial meeting in alphabetical order. If any names have been overlooked, Secretary Bryant urged that they be called to his attention. They are:

R. E. Prince, Chas. H. Mills, C. L. Jester, A. A. Wortham, F. N. Drane, Lawrence Treadwell, W. H. Hastings, John A. Thompson, E. S. McGee, A. B. Douglass, R. A. Caldwell, Tom B. Kirkham, Lawson Coulson, Frank P. Wood, G. W. Brillhart, C. N. Olsen, J. M. Dyer Sr., A. A. Allison, C. B. Sutherland, J. L. Halbert, Dr. L. E. Kelton, Sr., C. T. Banister, Ross G. Harris, Will S. Knight, C. M. Thornell, C. R. Terry, John T. Fortson, Dr. Trim Houston, Henry J. Robbins, Roland Irby, E. M. Polk, Sr., Jimmie Starks, E. B. Dawson, Lonnie Powell, A H. Kerr, Johnnie Garitty, F. E. McPherson, W. A. Mowlam, Hawkins Scarbrough, R. L. Hamilton, P. Mayer, F. W. Smith, Harris Ransom, W. C. Ralston, J. N. Royall, Sr, S. M. Kerr and J. H. Woods.

Invitations were mailed Thursday to the wives, or nearest of kin of the above members, and they will be guests of the club at the meeting.

Negro Sentenced In Murder Case; New Trial Denied

District Judge A. P. Mays Thursday overruled defense counsel's motion for a new trial in the case of Lee Slaughter, who was assessed a three-year prison sentence last week on conviction of murder without malice.

Slaughter, a nuegro, was convicted of slaying another negro in Limestone county in 1944.

Defense attorneys gave notice of appeal and Slaughter was free on bond pending final outcome of the case, County Attorney Charles T Banister announced.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge Mays after he overruled the motion of a new trial, which alleged, among other things, "misconduct" on the part of jury in reaching a verdict.

Let 'Em Eat Yeast

When spring appetites lag, here's an easy way to increase the family's quota of health-building B complex vitamins and protein. Just add 2 teaspoonfuls of brewer's yeast to 2 tablespoons of peanut butter, slightly warmed; mix thoroughly with 2 teaspoonfuls of melted butter and spread on warm toast or hot breads. Brewer's yeast contains nearly 50 per cent protein and is one of the richest natural sources of vitamin B complex. Unlike yeast used to raise bread, Brewers' yeast may be added in small quantities to batters and many other types of recipes without affecting flavor or chemical action and provides one of the easiest ways to increase nutritional value.

Youth In Lonely Hearts Case Will Go To Delaware

DOVER, Del., April 21.—(AP)—State police today made plans to bring a third son of Mrs. Inez Brennan back from his Texas Air Force base for arraignment in Delaware's "lonely hearts" slayings.

State Police Col. Herbert E. Barnes said George Brennan, 19, arrested yesterday at the Lackland Air Force base near San Antonio, would be charged with being an accessory after the fact in the slaying of one of two elderly men.

Mrs. Brennan, 44-year-old twice-married brunette, and another son, Robert, 15, have been charged with murder in the slaying of Wade N. Wooldridge, 70, Bedford, Va. Another son, Raymond, 23, has been charged with being an accessory.

Barnes said New Hampshire police will file charges in the slayings of the second victim, Hugo Schultz, 66, Epson, N. H. The state police official previously announced Mrs. Brennan, Robert and Raymond signed statements telling how Robert shot Wooldridge at his mother's order and Mrs. Brennan shot Schultz.

She had met both men, Barnes said, through "lonely hearts correspondence" and plotted their deaths with robbery as the motive.

At San Antonio, Assistant District Attorney C. M. Biery said George Brennan told him in an oral statement that he joined the air force "to get away from all the tension around the house."

Biery quoted young Brennan as saying he was away from the family until 9 p. m. the day Wooldridge was shot and that when he, Brennan, returned home his mother told him he would have to get up early the next morning to help bury Wooldridge's body.

In connection with Schultz's death, George said his mother wrote him to come to New Hampshire and "We took the body back to Dover with us and buried it in the yard near the other one," Biery quoted George as saying.

Texas Ranger Zeno Smith said last night he was awaiting the arrival of a warrant for George Brennan. Young Brennan, the ranger said has agreed to waive extradition. He has been serving at Lackland Air Force base since Feb. 11 as a basic recruit.

Meanwhile, Delaware authorities continued their search of the Brennan farm near Dover. In their statements, Mrs. Brennan, Robert and Raymond were quoted by Barnes as saying the bodies of Wooldridge and Schultz were buried in a pigpen, later dug up, burned and the remains scattered on a city dump.

State police found "a bushel basket of lonely hearts letters" on the Brennan farm and have been attempting to trace the men who wrote these to Mrs. Brennan.

Roney's countered in the second off two walks by Crawford and a sizzling triple off the bat of Bowden, but it was good for only two runs, which ended the scoring for the night for the losers.

Responsibility Of Home And Of School Discussed At Meeting Of Crockett PTA By Norwood

W. H. Norwood, superintendent of public schools, told David Crockett PTA members Tuesday that the responsibilities of the home included rearing the child, providing companionship, security, food and shelter.

He said that home and school should work together for the good of the child. He compared the work done in the school by himself, the board of education and teachers to the work accomplished at home by the parents. The parent-teacher association, pointed out the speaker, brought the two forces together.

In his talk Supt. Norwood presented facts concerning the separation of the school system from the municipal government, reminding the parents of an early modification in the school system which had worked to the good of the community. He read statements from a newspaper clipping quoting Beauford Jester as advising parents to go to school, to see how good it is and to determine what is needed for both the betterment of the building and the child. He said that public schools now are set up for the good of the less privileged child, but that he hoped that the needs of such a child would be met even more carefully.

A feature of the meeting was the presentation of autograph books to fourth graders who will leave the school at the end of the term to enter other elementary schools. David Crockett school includes only the four grades. Mrs. H. L. Meador, president, served as chairman of a committee to purchase the gifts.

Plans were made for an ice cream supper Thursday evening May 5th, at 7 o'clock. Proceeds will go into the general fund for use next year.

Plans also were drafted for a picnic the morning of Thursday May 26th. The students and parents will leave the school at 10:30 o'clock in the morning for the City Park where luncheon will be spread.

The program of spring songs offered by the children was as follows:

"Winter Goodbye"
"Spring Song"
"Joy in Spring"
Grades III and IV.
'Spring Song"
"Dear Little Violet"
"Rain Drops"
Grades I and II.
"Dinah"
"Torn Clothes"
"Waltz Song"
Grades III and IV.
'Bouncing Ball'
"Bicycle"
"Swinging"
Grades I and II.
"Can Ce on the Cune"
"Cooky Man"
"North Star"
"Playing Together"
"A Child's Evening Song"
Grades III and IV.
"Tweet, Tweet, Tweet"
Grades I and II.

In the first and second grade chorus were Tommy Meador, Jackie Dycus, Alice Johnston, Nancy Ramirez, Leslie Sikes, Stevie Williams, Maxine Farmer, Rubye Roberts, Louis Harris, Dixie Johnston, Gary Arnold, Billy Kirk, Ernest Pargo, Don Simington, Jesse Gomez, Mary Ruth Jiraseh, Sylvia Arnold, Janie Lea Meador and Lillie Reyes.

Delay Action On Separation Of Schools And City

Separation of Corsicana schools from the city apparently had hit a snag Tuesday.

Ralph R. Brown, member of the school board, announced at the city hall that the matter would not be brought before the city commission during the afternoon as planned.

Brown was in conference with Mayor Hubert T. Braselton during the morning

He said that the interest and sinking fund split—a matter that has grown in importance since the last meeting of the commission—would require the services of a bond expert, and this must be obtained before the matter is submitted to a vote.

It also was understood that the city and school officials had not got together on the school board's request that the city set a maximum tax rate if and when the schools are divided from their parentage.

Czechs Give U.S. Lengthy Note On Pair Of Soldiers

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, April 21—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government delivered to the United States embassy today a lengthey note on the case of two American soldiers whom the Czechoslovaks have sentenced to long prison terms on charges they were spies.

U. S. Ambassador J. E. Jacobs said that the note was so long it would require a great deal of study before he could comment on it.

It was understood that photographed copies of long statements which the Czech said were written by the two soldiers before their secret trial March 26 were included, and that a complete report is being sent to Washington.

The two men are George Jones of Owensboro, Ky., sentenced to 10 years in prison, and Clarence Hill, of Pampa, Texas, sentenced to 12 years. They were arrested on the Czechoslovak side of the border after they left the constabulary unit they were attached to in Germany.

The United States protested the circumstances under which they were held, the secret trial, and the fact they were unable to interview the men until after they were tried and sentenced. All authoritative American sources stated that the charge the men were spies was "preposterous."

Legislators Hold Up Action On Big Texas Money Bill

AUSTIN, Tex., April 21—(AP)—The house appropriation committee has refused immediate action on the 50 million dollar biennial departmental money bill.

It voted last night to hold it in committee until Monday without action. The decision came after several members objected to lump sum appropriations for several state departments. The committee wants these detailed by department heads.

Chairman Ray Kirkpatrick of Trenton also announced that the committee would ask college heads to furnish a breakdown on lump sum fund allocations.

The house has passed and sent to the senate two of the major biennial money bills: That for the judiciary, and that for the eleemosynary institutions. The senate has not approved any. The four big money bills were sent back to its finance committee for trimming by the senate.

The house committe last night lopped $350,000 from proposed departmental spending. It cut out a $275,000 item for microfilming state records, and a $75,000 item for traveling rural libraries.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 21—(AP)—The stock market closed at the lowest level in a month today after a stiff pre-noon dose of selling.

Losses ranged from fractions to around 2 points. Few key issues escaped the pressure.

The volume of business expanded rapidly as prices curved downward. Turnover was at the rate of about 1,200,000 shares for the full session.

Selling orders poured into the Exchange shortly before noon when the widest declines were scored.

Brokers could discover no immediate news to account for the sudden drop.

American Telephone was one of the comparatively few steady spots, with the price barely stirring from Wednesday's close. The stock dropped 1 5-8 points yesterday in the wake of stockholder approval of a huge financing plan which will eventually involve issuance of additional A. T. and T. stock. American Woolen took one of the worst spills, losing around 2 points.

Others lower included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, International Telephone, American Smelting, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Radio Corp., International Paper, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), Gulf Oil and United Air Lines.

Bonds tended lower with stocks. U. S. Governments moved narrowly in over-the-counter dealings.

New York Cotton Table

NEW YORK, April 21.—(AP)—Cotton futures moved in a narrow range today, with evening-up operations in nearby May, prior to first notice day. A leading spot firm offered nearby May persistently and sold about 3,000 contracts against purchases of the old crop July delivery.

Cotton futures inched upward into new high ground for the day toward the close, influenced by more active short covering in nearby May.

Futures closed 5 to 60 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

BROADWAY....
by Mark Barron

NEW YORK—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

Margaret Phelan, the Fort Worth, Tex., soprano thrush, had just started for the stage entrance of the Paramount Theater when she was handed a telegram. It read:

"All best wishes for your Broadway debut and I know you will receive all the success your beauty and your voice deserves. (Signed) Beauford H. Jesteer, Governor of Teexas."

Walking briskly along Fifty-Seventh Street, I encountered comedian Fred Allen lugging a portable typewriter.

"Why are you carrying that around town? I inquired.

"It sometimes comes in handy on my strolls around New York," he said, "I am constantly bumping into people who want me to write them a check."

Things that are difficult to believe: Evelyn Knight, the vocalist, said that she had her hair cut short simply for the reason that it wouldn't blow in her face when she was driving her car.

Horace McMahon, hurrying to his role as Police Lieuteneant Monoghan in the Broadway hit, "Detective Story," confides that he has a difficult time staying on one side of the law or the other. He studied law at Fordhum University, then became an actor and went to Hollywood where he was typed as a gangster in crime pictures. Now he is back on the other side playing a strict, high minded police officer.

Arranging incidental music for serious programs on the radio is sometimes a maddening job because script writers make so free with words in describing the kind of music they want. How would you like to be acomposer such as Lyn Murray who recently was handed a script asking for this musical bridge. Ten-seconds of music which will express "Nightfall with a storm coming up, followed by dawn and sunrise?"

Murray studied it a moment, then muttered: "The goon wants a whole night's weather report in ten seconds." Murray did this one in record time because it was a last minute request, but he said that there have been times when it has taken him as long as seven hours to compose a ten-second musical interlude.

MONEY CAN RUIN HUMAN LIFE OR FILL IT WITH PRIVILEGE

The Foolish Householder Is Bible's "Horrible Example" of Wrong Use—Unsocial Attitude Toward Money Ruins Spiritual Values—This Christian Teaching Particularly Applicable To Modern Life

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS.

Money is the root of all evel. Does the Bible say this? No. This is the inaccurate reading which many people give a very important verse found in the sixth chapter of First Timothy. What the Bible really says is that "the love of money is the root of all evil," and that is a vastly different matter. The Founder of the Christian religion had a lot to say about money. But Jesus was not against money per se; His insistence was that money should be man's servant and God's, and He warned all against the devastating corrosion of soul which a love of money produces.

A Modern Obsession.

We live in tremendous times. Fundamental changes are taking place in the structure of society. No one will deny that, in the western world at least, the great goal of human endeavor has been the acquisition of money. No other standard of "success" has a chance alongside of this one. This means that the words of Jesus about wealth apply particularly to this day and generation of ours, for of all the teachers who have ever lived, none has spoken so clearly and effectively on this issue as has Jesus.

In the Sunday school lesson this week, we have the picture of a man who had so much money he didn't know what to do with it. This was before the days of income taxes and probably before the "boom and bust" cycle got into operation. But this man was headed for a "bust" although he little suspected it. He was about to be declared bankrupt and by none other than the Mighty Ruler of the universe Himself. When the Lord was through talking to this fellow, he was "busted" indeed.

Bad Money Behavior.

The evening before he died, this man was boasting about his wealth and asking himself with more pride than enxiety what he would do with his abundance. Before morning, the news had gone out through the Oriental village that Mr. Moneybags was dead, this first citizen of their community who rose from poverty to wealth by hard work and prudence. But what the citizenry of that village did not know was that the great first citizen had, one moment after his death, reverted to a poverty a thousand times more barren than that with which he had started his earthly life. He had been put into the world to grow a soul, and he had come to the end of his life with nothing but full barns and a big cash balance in the bank. He had made the worst mistake a man can ever make—he had laid up treasure for himself and had paid no attention to becoming rich toward God. Now he would have to spend eternity in a world where God was the undisputed King, where full barns and satisfactory cash balances have no standing whatsoever.

Insistent Physical Demands.

When he finally "arrived" at the pinnacle of financial success, he made a decision as to what he would do with his wealth; and he made it in a most expansive mood of satisfaction—he would pull down his barns and build greater, and he would say to his soul, "eat, drink and be merry." He was the ancestor of those millions today who, when they get a bit of money past them, begin to plan how they can pour it into physical enjoyments. Acquisition—or even the anticipation of wealth—arouses all sorts of lurid fantasies over the possible enjoyment of comfort and appetite. But it never works out the way we think it will. In His mercy God arranges matters so that realization is disappointing compared with anticipation. Or if we are beyond hope of learning, then, in divine disgust, God blows the whistle and the game of life is over, and the God-given opportunity of a lifetime is past. The gates of eternity open then to spiritual poverty and darkness.

Jesus pointed out that it is the nature of wealth to distort one's sense of values. Money puts a quirk in men's straight thinking. Once the money passion takes possession of a person, his spiritual eyesight becomes affected. He becomes blind to the supremacy of those ideals which all the experience of the race, and the teachings of Scripture have fixed as preeminent.

The Sensible Way.

Plan your life on a different basis, says Jesus. Plan it with as much care as a man who would build a tower, or a general who would meet an invading army and turn it back. It costs something to live the Christian life. The generous life enlarges the soul. The abstemious life invigorates every inner power, whereas indulgence decliminates it. Get yourself ready for eternity. You are going to spend a long time there. Don't trifle; and above all don't be misled as to what constitute the truly permanent values of the universe.

Seven Sentence Sermons.

Friendship with a man is friendship with his virtues.—Mencius.

Money is a bottomless sea, in which honor, conscience, and truth may be drowned.—Kozlay.

Money was made, not to command our will
But all our lawful pleasures to fulfill.
Shame and woe to us, if we our wealth obey;
The horse doth with the horseman run away.
—Cowley.

A fool and his money be soon at debate.—Tusser.

And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.—Luke 14:27.

O, where is loyalty?
If it be banished from the frosty head,
Where shall it find a harbor in the earth?
—Shakespare.

A man should inure himself to voluntary labor, and not give up to indulgence and pleasure, as they beget no good constitution of body nor knowledge of mind.—Socrates.

Killed By Train

FORT WORTH, April 21.—(AP)—James Leonard Smith, 59, a Fort Worth and Denver City railroad brakeman, was killed yesterday afternoon when a freight train backed over him near Euless.

And Freedom

Americans, living today in a country unique in freedoms of action, religion, and speech, well realize their blessings.

No ministers are imprisoned. Newspapers are liberal in defending the rights of men. We can walk as free men.

The Easter Season has brought us a new realization of our position. No amount of money is too much to spend for God, for freedom.

No personal sacrifice is too great.

Robert V. Yarber.

At the meeting of the North Corsicana Sub District of the Youth Fellowship, meeting in the April session Tuesday night at the Central Methodist Church, officers for the new year were elected and the 11th Avenue Methodist church this city was named as the place for the May meeting, the meeting to be held Tuesday night, May 10th, at which time officers for the new year will be installed.

Officers elected Tuesday night, all by ballot, were as follows: President, Joe Bert Sessom of Blooming Grove; vice president, Donald Washburn of Central Methodist; secretary, Jamie Corbin of Blooming Grove; publicity superintendent, Boyce Martin Jr. of First Church, re-elected; worship and evangelism chairman, Martha Clayton of Kerens; community service chairman, Johnnie Crawford of First Church; recreation chairman, Artillisa Orme of Blooming Grove; friendship chairman, Jack Hobbs of Rice.

The roll call showed that the 11th Avenue Methodist Church and Richland tied for attendance with 100 per cent, with Blooming Grove second with 85 per cent.

The young people of the host church gave the devotional service, which was an Easter program. Refreshments of cold drinks, sandwiches, cookies and Easter eggs were served in abundance. Representatives were present from Blooming Grove, Central Methodist, 11th Avenue Methodist, First Church, North Corsicana, Kerens, Rice, Richland, and Eureka. The invocation was given by Rev. Marvin C. Bledsoe, host pastor, and the prayer by Rev. Morris J. Bailey, pastor of the 11th Avenue Metrodist.

Plans For Study Of Texas' Water ProblemApproved

AUSTIN, April 20.—(AP)—A proposal to set up a between-sessions comittee to study Texas' surface water problems was approved by a house committee last night.

The plan, by Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, has been approved by the senate.

Rep. Bill Tippen of Abilene said the committee would consist of 22 members—eight appointed by the speaker of the house, eight by the lieutenant governor and six by the governor. It would report back to the 52nd legislature with its recommendations for changes in surface water laws.

The committee sent to a subcommittee a bill which would set up a drainage district in Fort Bend county. Several residents of the county testified that drainage problems could be handled by the county without voting a bond issue. They protested that a dainage district would cause more taxes.

Rep. James B. Pattison of Pattison, Texas, and other supporters said proper agricultural drainage could not be obtained without a properly organized and administered drainage district.
